INTRODUCTION

Purpose

Kindergarten to Grade 8 Dance: Manitoba Curriculum Framework (the Dance Framework) provides the basis for learning, teaching, and assessment of dance in Manitoba schools. The Dance Framework describes the learnings for dance education and provides a basis for the development of curriculum implementation resources for Kindergarten to Grade 8 dance. It is intended to assist teachers, administrators, and partners in education with implementing the dance curriculum and with planning professional learning.

This document provides background information and implementation guidelines pertaining to dance education. It presents an overview of the Dance Framework, outlines the document components and organization, and identifies the four learning areas and the recursive and enacted learnings for Kindergarten to Grade 8 dance in Manitoba.

Background

In 2003, Manitoba Education developed a draft position statement on The Arts in Education (Manitoba Education and Youth) as an initial step in renewing provincial curricula for the arts. In preparing this statement, the arts educators who comprised the project team drew on current research in arts education and reviewed arts curricula from Canadian and international jurisdictions. The draft statement was distributed to education stakeholders, along with an invitation to provide feedback about the proposed direction for curriculum renewal. Responses provided by classroom teachers, school administrators, arts specialists, arts education organizations, trustees, parents, and post-secondary faculty were published in 2004 in Responses to The Arts in Education Survey: Summary Report (Manitoba Education, Citizenship and Youth). Responses to The Arts in Education position statement were overwhelmingly positive and guided subsequent curriculum development of arts curricula in Manitoba.

In the spring of 2010, the Manitoba Education Research Network (MERN) released A Study of Arts Education in Manitoba Schools led by researcher Francine Morin. As a result of these publications, Kindergarten to Grade 8 frameworks for dramatic arts, visual arts, dance, and music were developed and published. Their province-wide implementation began in 2011.

In January 2011, the Western and Northern Canadian Protocol for Collaboration in Education, Kindergarten to Grade 12, (WNCP) prepared Guiding Principles for

WNCP Curriculum Framework Projects in response to the significant changes in the ways people live and work in today's world. The Dance Framework reflects the WNCP guiding principles that are required to meet the needs of today's creative economies and knowledge-based societies.

In addition, the Dance Framework draws on Manitoba curriculum and support documents in various subject areas, including Kindergarten to Grade 12 Aboriginal Languages and Cultures: Manitoba Curriculum Framework of Outcomes (Manitoba Education, Citizenship and Youth) and Education for a Sustainable Future: A Resource for Curriculum Developers, Teachers, and Administrators (Manitoba Education and Training). Arts education, including dance education, is important for preserving and nurturing human culture and heritage and necessary for human health and social well-being. Human health and social well-being and a sustainable environment and economy are essential and integrated components of an equitable quality of life and a sustainable future for all Canadians. Education for a Sustainable Future highlights community and culture, the economic viability of arts and cultural enterprises, and the preservation of heritage and culture as crucial sustainability issues and concepts.

System-wide implementation of the new Grades 9 to 12 dance, dramatic arts, music, and visual arts curriculum frameworks was initiated in the 2015/2016 school year. The Grades 9 to 12 arts curriculum frameworks informed ever-greening of the Kindergarten to Grade 8 dance, dramatic arts, music, and visual arts curriculum frameworks in 2021.

Implementation

In Manitoba, arts education is compulsory for Grades 1 to 8. The minimum recommended time allotments for arts education in Grades 1 to 8 are as follows:

- Grades 1 to 6: 10 percent of instructional time
- Grades 7 and 8: 8 percent of instructional time

Manitoba offers a distinct framework for each of the four arts education disciplines: dramatic arts, dance, music, and visual arts. Although there are common areas of learning in the four arts disciplines, each discipline is distinct and requires unique language, tools, skills, techniques, knowledge, and learnings.

The offering of four arts frameworks provides resources for rich, comprehensive, and diverse meaning making and ways of communicating through the unique literacies of dance, dramatic arts, music, and visual arts. Because the individual arts represent distinct ways of knowing, each of the arts makes a significant contribution to learners' learning and development. Learning is achieved through the variety of methods and media inherent in a specific arts discipline. Each arts framework encompasses a variety of recognized strands or options possible for each arts discipline in the Kindergarten to Grade 8 context. For example, the Dance Framework is inclusive of all dance genres, such as contemporary dance, jazz dance, ballet, hoop dancing, folk dancing, and so on.

Manitoba schools may offer one or more individual arts disciplines (dance, dramatic arts, music, and/or visual arts). Schools have the flexibility to choose the number and combination of arts disciplines appropriate for their local context, resources, and needs. The number of arts disciplines offered in a school will depend upon available resources, allocated instructional time, staffing, and the arts implementation approach used in the school.

Educators can use a wide variety of approaches and resources for implementing arts education. For example, schools may offer arts disciplines individually as a stand-alone model, arts disciplines in combination with each other, and/or arts disciplines integrated with other subject areas.

Curriculum integration reinforces meaningful connections within and across disciplines. The arts enrich and are enriched by each other and other subject areas by affording new and deeper insights and a greater range of possibilities for communicating experience and meaning. When true integration occurs, no individual subject area is used solely to support learning in other subjects.

Educators are encouraged to integrate arts learnings with other subject areas where meaningful and appropriate, while maintaining focus on learner achievement of the arts learnings. Each arts framework is considered fully implemented only if all four learning areas for any one arts discipline are explored in comprehensive, substantial, and interconnected ways.

To teach any of the four arts disciplines effectively, teachers need the appropriate knowledge and skills, which can be acquired in various ways, including specialist education, pre-service and in-service education, and other professional learning opportunities.

Content

The Dance Framework contains the following components:

- Introduction: The introduction addresses the purpose of, background to, and implementation guidelines for dance education in Manitoba schools from Kindergarten to Grade 8, as well as outlining the content of this document.
- Overview of the Dance Framework: The overview focuses on the landscape of dance, the nature of the dance discipline, and the rationale for dance education. It also discusses learning in dance, describing the learning process, highlighting the transformative learning potential of dance education, and outlining the guiding principles for learning in dance.
- Dance Framework Components and Organization: This section explains the use of the butterfly image as a metaphor for learning and as a graphic organizer for the distinct and interconnected parts of the dance curriculum. The body of the butterfly is shown to represent the developing learner at the centre, with each of the four wings representing one of four interconnected learning areas. The ways in which the wings work together and individually to organize and integrate the recursive and enacted learnings of the dance curriculum are also discussed. The learning areas and the recursive learnings are presented in this section, along with a guide to reading these elements and the enacted learnings.

- Kindergarten to Grade 8 Dance: Recursive Learnings: The curriculum consists of four learning areas, which are further elaborated by recursive learnings and realized through enacted learnings.

Kindergarten to Grade 8 recursive dance learnings are developed, recombined, elaborated, and transformed across novel and varied contexts so that learning becomes more sophisticated, more complex, deeper, and broader with time and new experiences. Recursive learning is more than repetition, iteration, accumulation, or the notion of a spiral curriculum. The word recursive comes from the Latin verb recurrere, which means “to run back” or “to return.” Through the process of returning and reflecting back on previous learning—“a second looking—transformation, growth, development occur” (Doll).

- Appendices: The appendices provide supports related to key concepts addressed in some enacted learnings.
- Glossary: Specific terms used within the dance discipline are defined in the glossary.
- Bibliography: The resources used in the development of this document are cited in the bibliography.

OVERVIEW OF THE DANCE FRAMEWORK

The Landscape of Dance

The Manitoba Dance Framework is conceived as a full landscape of knowledge where educators and learners meet in the work of active, embodied dance learning. Educators and learners are invited into the living field of dance education through a curriculum designed to place learners in the dynamic, complex working culture of dance. The Dance Framework is built using four interrelated essential learning areas, connected to the learner dancer at the core. Wayfinding through the dance environment is provided by connected sets of recursive and enacted learnings for the learning areas.

“Curricula for today’s world use ecological metaphors” (WNCP 6) to convey the notion that knowledge is dynamic and always in the process of being constructed. Curriculum frameworks are conceived as complex, organic networks organized into living fields or landscapes, rather than as fragmented pieces of knowledge pieced together in a linear fashion. Learning in the landscape of dance means learning the complexities and ways of the discipline while learning how to do in the discipline. Learning the landscape of dance, or coming to know and do in the discipline, means the ability to enter into, learn the way around, participate fully in, and make a contribution to the culture of dance (WNCP).

Dance learning is understood to be a journey into the landscape of dance education. The Dance Framework provides multiple locations for learners to enter and continue lifelong transformative travels in the dance landscape. Learners may have various trajectories through a dance landscape that create “a unique point of view, a location with specific possibilities for enhancing the learning capability of [their] sphere of participation” (Wenger 197). Each learner’s unique identity, and the individual perspective it offers, is a gift to the world (Wenger 197).

The Nature of the Dance Discipline

Dance enriches a vibrant culture and is integral to human life. It has the power to illuminate, deepen, broaden, and enhance human experience. Dance offers a unique way of perceiving, interpreting, and communicating diverse life worlds. As one of the oldest and most primal of the performing arts, dance has existed across all cultures and historical periods. It has always been a socially significant component of all civilizations, and it remains a relevant symbolic tool for people around the globe today.

As an expressive art form, dance provides an embodied, physical form and language for conveying images, meaning, and feelings. In this sense, dance offers both the message and the medium. Dance experiences contribute to personal, social, economic, cultural, and civic aspects of human lives. Invariably, dance serves various purposes that permeate cultures worldwide, including performing, healing, entertaining, celebrating, socializing, learning, worshiping, becoming physically fit, and communicating.

Dance has interpretive and functional powers that enrich and fulfill the human experience. Body, mind, and spirit are united in dance in ways that engage people profoundly as they seek meaning in the world around them. Dance intentionally fosters the habits of mind that enable people to question, develop a sense of agency, tolerate ambiguity, cope with uncertainty, consider alternative perspectives, and imagine new possibilities.

Rationale for Dance Education

Dance is a vital part of every learner's education and contributes to deep and enduring learner engagement that leads to learning success. Dance education develops unique, powerful, and multiple ways of perceiving, interpreting, knowing, representing, and communicating understandings about self and the world. Through dance experiences, learners have opportunities to think creatively, explore ideas and feelings, and develop emerging personal, cultural, and social identities.

Dance involves educating learners through the medium of movement, which encompasses performing, creating, and valuing dance experiences. Socialization and interaction are central features of dance as a group experience. As a distinct mode of knowing, dance is a catalyst for wondering, imagining, exploring, and learning that is mediated through socio-emotional and bodily-kinesthetic processes. The fusion of body action and cognition manifested in the Dance Framework promotes self-initiated learning, active problem solving, openness, collaboration, innovation, socialization, empathy, flexibility, critical and divergent thinking, and risk taking. Dance has the potential to promote responsibility and leadership and to prepare and inspire future citizens of the world to understand and address the most critical challenges of their times.

Learning in Dance

Current research, theory, and practice give direction for quality dance education within the dance landscape. Quality dance education, informed by guiding principles and current understandings of how learners learn, has the potential to transform learning in powerful ways.

The Learning Process

Learning is an active, embodied, and social process of constructing meaning. It is shaped by the dynamic interaction of learners' prior knowledge and new experiences. Learners construct unique understandings in many different ways, depending on their interests, experiences, and learning styles, and on personal, social, and cultural factors. Learners are motivated to become engaged learners when learning has personal and relevant meaning for them and when they have opportunities to reflect on and guide their own learning.

In the school environment, learning occurs simultaneously across and between multiple nested levels that include individual and collective learners, educators, and schools, curriculum structures, artistic and cultural communities, and disciplinary knowledge (Davis and Sumara 91). Individual, personal knowing is enfolded in and unfolded from collective knowing and activity (Davis and Sumara 65). See illustration on the following page.

The Transformative Learning Potential of Dance Education

Learning in the arts, including dance, has the potential to foster transformative learning. Transformative learning (Mezirow, “Transformative Learning as Discourse” 58) involves the acquisition of new knowledge and skills and the building of competence and confidence to use disorienting experiences and learning in the exploration of new perspectives, roles, and relationships that enable people to move to courses of action (Mezirow, “Transformative Learning Theory” 19). Affective ways of knowing are significant for transformative educational experiences (Taylor 10) that challenge and change the ways people view the world. Affective ways of knowing are essential to the critical reflection necessary for transformative learning (Taylor 10). The affective, embodied, and authentic ways of knowing afforded by dance education provide “alternative ways of knowing and being” (Butterwick and Lawrence 36) that create multiple opportunities for transformative change.

Arts-based processes have powerful transformative potential “because they tap into embodied knowing, honor emotions, and create spaces for rehearsal for action... and imagining of alternative realities” (Butterwick and Lawrence 44).

Guiding Principles for Learning in Dance

The following guiding principles for learning in dance are based on current thinking in curriculum development.

Dance is understood to be

- an expressive art form
- an active, embodied, living discipline
- a form of literacy with a unique set of tools and language, multimodal processes, skills, knowledge, and forms

Quality dance education

- affords a diverse and broad range of dance and dance experiences, participatory approaches, and ways of thinking about, learning, interpreting, and representing dance
- integrates the four networked learning areas to develop concepts and skills with meaning, coherence, depth, and competency
- focuses on essential questions of why dance learning is important, what understandings and meanings the dance tools and language can communicate, what dance can reveal about culture and identity, and what purpose and meaning dance has for individuals and communities
- builds on prior dance learning in a reflective, recursive process so that new possibilities emerge and new understandings, patterns, and relationships grow deeper, richer, and more sophisticated and complex over time and through experience

- is sufficiently substantive to generate deep conceptual understanding and learning “that enables learners to make connections, reason, innovate, problem solve, critique and create” (WNCP 4)
- engages and motivates learners intrinsically and deeply in relevant, authentic, personal ways—bodily, intellectually, and aesthetically
- invites and promotes opportunities for transformative learning and living

Quality learning in dance

- occurs across and between nested levels that include the individual and the collective learner (Davis and Sumara 90–91)
- connects meaningfully and dynamically to learning across subject areas and the wider local and global dance, artistic, and cultural communities
- includes opportunities to explore creativity, imagination, risk taking, flexibility, ambiguity, uncertainty, and learner choice
- includes collaborative, diverse knowledge-building as it works in the world (WNCP 9)

The learning environment

- provides learners with opportunities to inquire, engage in learning conversations, question, dialogue, analyze, interpret, reflect, evaluate, construct, and share meaning through multiple perspectives

- values learner voice as essential for establishing individual and collaborative directions for dance inquiry and learning, developing learning goals, making decisions, and building criteria for learning and assessment
- respects and values the diversity of learners and their ways of coming to know within the learning community (WNCP 9)
- ensures that ongoing assessment as and for learning is central to all dance learning to enable learners and educators to observe, give and receive feedback, revise, refine, plan, and effectively promote and achieve growth in dance
- provides learners with multiple and various ways to demonstrate understanding and achievement of dance learnings

THE DANCE FRAMEWORK COMPONENTS AND ORGANIZATION

The Dance Framework Butterfly

The Manitoba Dance Framework philosophy, learning areas, and recursive learnings are represented graphically and metaphorically by the image of a butterfly.

As a graphic organizer, the butterfly image forms a diagram comprising five distinct and interconnected parts: the four wings that each connect to the fifth part, the main body in the centre. Each of the wings represents one of four learning areas into which the recursive learnings of the Dance Framework have been classified. The central area or “body” of the butterfly, the part to which all the wings connect, represents the learner as a developing dancer.

The butterfly image promotes the belief, integral to the Dance Framework, that every learner’s growth as a dancer and a dance-literate person can be realized through ongoing learning experiences that connect creative dance activities, technical knowledge and skill development, the building and broadening of cultural and historical understandings related to art and life, and ongoing reflective and critical thinking opportunities that focus on dance and personalized learning.

The butterfly also functions as a metaphor for dance and dance education, alluding to transformation, self-actualization, visual beauty, and resilience. The butterfly image may stimulate many other associations by those who encounter this Dance Framework; such generative thinking is fitting for a framework intended as an impetus to creative and personalized learning.

The Centre of the Butterfly

The centre of the butterfly represents the dance learner, who is drawing learnings from all learning areas of the dance curriculum to stimulate and sustain the learner's growth, and emphasizing the following ideas and relationships:

- Every learner deserves to know the joy of dance and to learn in and through active, developmentally appropriate dance experiences.
- Dance learners learn to use and to respect their bodies as instruments for creative expression, working through space, movement, and energy as avenues for expression.
- Dancing activates and nurtures learners' developing physical, intellectual, affective, social, and artistic selves. In exercising their visual/spatial, kinesthetic, musical, and other intelligences, learners learn to think with their minds and with their bodies.
- Through dancing, learners learn about the world around them and the world beyond, experiencing dances from diverse cultures and times.
- Dancing learners are creators. In creating, choreographing, and performing their own dances, learners explore their ideas, imaginations, and newly developed skills in personally meaningful ways.

As increasingly capable and passionate dancers, learners journey toward becoming creative, artistically literate adults and citizens who will truly enrich their own lives and the lives of their future communities.

The Wings Working Together

When the centre of the dance butterfly connects with the four wings, new relationships emerge. Each wing represents one of the learning areas into which the recursive and enacted learnings are organized. While the body of the butterfly evokes a holistic view of the learner as a young dancer, the wings working together articulate a range of learnings that collectively support a path to comprehensive and balanced learning in dance.

In the Dance Framework, the learning areas are

- Making
- Creating
- Connecting
- Responding

Although each learning area presents a distinct set of recursive learnings, the areas are not intended to be realized in isolation. Just as real wings work synchronously with each other, the learning areas are intended to function together by integrating the recursive learnings.

Dance language and practices (Making) are connected to how they may be used to create dance (Creating), what understandings and significance the language and practices can communicate through diverse contexts (Connecting), and how critical reflection about dance transforms learning and develops identity and agency (Responding).

The Wings Individually

The organization of learnings into distinct, interrelated learning areas, or wings, is intended to give a clear outline of the knowledge, skills, and attitudes learners are expected to demonstrate in dance at various grades. Each of the four learning areas contains the following components:

Learning area

Each learning area begins with a statement of the overall learning intent of the area or wing and outlines important practices and competencies in dance learning.

Recursive learnings

Recursive learnings further elaborate the learning areas across Kindergarten to Grade 8. They are developed, recombined, elaborated, and transformed across novel and varied contexts so that learning across grades becomes more sophisticated, more complex, deeper, and broader with time and new experiences and applications.

Enacted learnings

Enacted learnings represent multiple and diverse ways to enact the recursive learnings. They inform instructional design, teaching, and assessment. They are possible sources of evidence of recursive learnings in dramatic arts.

Learning Areas

The Dance Framework identifies the following four learning areas, along with a statement summarizing the overall learning intent of each area:

Making (M)

The learner develops language and practices for making dance.

Creating (CR)

The learner generates, develops, and communicates ideas for creating dance.

The Dance Learner

Connecting (C)

The learner develops understandings about the significance of dance by making connections to various contexts of times, places, social groups, and cultures.

Responding (R)

The learner uses critical reflection to inform dance learning and to develop agency and identity.

APPENDICES

INTRODUCTION

The appendices in the Dance Framework provide developmentally appropriate supports related to key concepts identified in selected enacted learnings. The following appendices provide support for developing skills and understandings related to the body, space, relationships, motion factors and gestures, movement qualities, dance characteristics, dance forms, and choreography:

- Appendix A: The Body
- Appendix B: Space
- Appendix C: Relationships
- Appendix D: Motion Factors and Gestures
- Appendix E: Movement Qualities
- Appendix F: Characteristics of Grade-Appropriate Dances
- Appendix G: Dance Forms
- Appendix H: Choreographic Considerations

Although a grade-appropriate sequence of knowledge and skill development is suggested, these concepts and skills are understood to be part of a continuum of dance learning, with entry points that will depend on the backgrounds and previous experiences of individual learners and on the meaningful context of the learning. Skills, knowledge, and conceptual understandings suggested for one grade are also important for subsequent grades. Learning in dance is understood to be recursive; dance language, tools, skills, and conceptual understandings grow deeper, richer, more sophisticated, and more complex over time and through experience.
