Resources

Print/Publication
• story about affection and caring
  Example of Story:

Blackline Master
• BLM 2-3.1: Showing Emotions
Notes to Teacher

Encourage students to recognize and celebrate the emotions they feel for others and/or those that others express toward them through a variety of art projects (e.g., painting, modelling, sculpture, dance, music, theatre, poetry, prose). Plan these projects in relation to special occasions such as Valentine’s Day, birthdays, parent days, and so on.

Be sensitive when detecting any student embarrassment, discomfort, or reticence with respect to ways of expressing emotions and affection. For cases of abuse (physical, psychological, sexual) and neglect, follow the school/division policies. Teachers are required by law to report all cases of abuse.

Curricular Connections

ELA:

Family Involvement

- Recommend a story about affection and caring for parents to read to their children.

Example of Story:
Suggestions for Instruction

1. Read a story about affection and/or introduce a discussion on appropriate ways to express emotions for the people (or animals) about whom we care.

   Example of Story:

2. Ask students:
   - “How do you show you love someone?”
   - “How do your parents show they love you?”
   - “How does affection affect people and make them feel?” (e.g., happy, warm, peaceful, worthy, safe, secure, well)

3. Have students pair up and decide on a way to demonstrate affection non-verbally (e.g., hug, thumbs-up, smile, pat on back, high-five). Give each pair the opportunity to present their demonstration.

4. Have students choose a person for whom they feel a particular affection and represent their choice in a drawing or a poem.

5. Introduce the game of celebration tag. When caught, students sit down. To free a caught player, someone has to give him or her a positive sign (e.g., thumbs-up, high-five, pat on back, handshake).

Suggestions for Assessment

Paper and Pencil Task
Teacher Assessment: Checklist

Have students match emotions/behaviours to the pictures representing those emotions/behaviours.
