

Kindergarten English Language Arts Pilot

ENGLISH Program

Discipline Overview

The study of English language arts enables Kindergarten to Grade 12 learners to explore, understand, and appreciate language and its use in multi-dimensional ways—through critical thinking, communicating, creating, collaborating, and reflecting—to empower learners to live Mino-pimatisiwin (The Good Life) and to contribute to their communities as global, literate citizens.

All Kindergarten to Grade 12 teachers contribute to their students' literacy development, supporting learner growth and transformation over time. This includes supporting learners' growth as readers and writers across disciplines and contexts. Each learner develops literacy knowledge and skills through opportunities to listen, speak, read, write, view, and represent in a variety of cultural, linguistic, and community contexts. The language arts are interrelated and interdependent; growth in one area strengthens and supports development in others.

English language arts empowers Kindergarten to Grade 12 learners to engage with multiple modes of communication—known as multiliteracies—across diverse contexts. In today's rapidly evolving landscape of texts, English language arts equips learners with the skills to navigate and interpret multimodal texts that blend print, digital, oral, and visual elements, including Indigenous oral traditions, stories, and knowledge shared across generations.

Through these text experiences, Kindergarten to Grade 12 learners question, investigate, create, communicate, and reflect in order to make sense of the world around them, drawing on varied perspectives, relationships, and lived experiences.

Across Kindergarten to Grade 12, English language arts curricular learning outcomes provide the foundation for developing global competencies. Through engagement with a range of texts, ideas, and experiences, learners apply and deepen these competencies to communicate, collaborate, think critically, and act purposefully, while developing a sense of self and identity, strengthening connections to communities, and expanding their understanding of the world as active and responsible participants.

English language arts serves as the gateway to self-knowing, being, and doing, engaging learners' imaginations, inspiring lifelong learning, and promoting appreciation for the diversity of human experiences conveyed through language, literature, and story.

In Manitoba, the Kindergarten to Grade 12 English language arts curriculum rests on the following four interconnected strands:

Building Literacy: This strand develops the foundational role of language that supports overall literacy development. Listening and speaking lay the groundwork for reading and writing, as learners investigate how language works—including its sounds, patterns, and structures—and discover the power of words to construct and express meaning. Reading and writing develop together as learners engage with traditional and contemporary texts to construct meaning across contexts. As learners progress, oral language continues to anchor comprehension, reasoning, and collaboration; at the same time, expanding vocabulary and word knowledge enable the creation and interpretation of increasingly complex texts. Across the grades, learners deepen their engagement with language by exploring and experimenting with its features, refining communication skills, and using language and literacy as powerful tools for learning and self-expression.

Comprehend and Respond: This strand develops learners' capacity to comprehend, interpret, and engage with and respond to a wide range of texts. Learners draw on prior knowledge and experiences as they acquire new information, construct meaning, and think critically about ideas and perspectives. They question, analyze, and evaluate texts by considering purpose, audience, and context. Responding involves expressing understanding, making connections, and communicating insights through discussion, writing, and other forms of representation. Across the grades, learners develop and refine ways of comprehending, interpreting, and thinking critically about texts through engagement with a range of texts and experiences. They deepen their learning, broaden perspectives, and shape how they engage with ideas and viewpoints from social, cultural, and historical contexts.

Compose and Create: This strand develops learners' capacity to express and communicate ideas through purposeful and creative text creation. Learners generate ideas, plan, and draft texts in print, digital, and multimodal forms, engaging in a full composing process that also includes revising, editing, and publishing. Through revision, they refine language, structure, and style to communicate meaning with clarity, precision, and creativity for different purposes and audiences. Across the grades, learners demonstrate increasing growth as text creators, crafting texts to share stories, express identity, and contribute meaningfully to their communities.

Share and Reflect: This strand develops learners' capacity to share ideas effectively and to deepen learning through reflection. Learners engage in collaborative dialogue and presentations to clarify thinking, build new understandings, and express ideas clearly and purposefully across a range of audiences and contexts. Reflection supports learner agency, as they assess progress, set goals, and use feedback to improve. Across the grades, communication serves as a tool for inquiry, problem solving, and collective learning, supporting the ongoing transformation of understanding through shared thinking, reflection, and relational approaches to knowledge building.

Course Overview

In Kindergarten, learners' oral vocabularies are expanding rapidly, and they are experimenting with new words, phrases, and language patterns that they acquire from conversations, poems, chants, and books. They play with the sounds of language as they discover the concepts of rhyme, syllables, and single sounds. Kindergarten learners use and understand more words than they can read or write. They use language to clarify their ideas, ask questions, and participate in discussions with others. At this age, they can recount or retell a story or personal experience logically to others.

Kindergarten learners are curious about the world and are eager to participate in exploring a variety of topics and texts. They ask questions, talk about what they notice, and make personal connections to text, drawing from their own experiences. Learners develop early concepts about print such as one-to-one word matching and directionality (e.g., print is read from left to right), and they begin to build a reading vocabulary of familiar words.

Kindergarten learners use their knowledge of letters and sounds as beginning readers and writers. They experiment with writing new words to record the letter sounds and words they know. They create texts and share their ideas with others in many ways—such as drawing, writing, telling stories, singing, drama, and role-playing. With guidance, Kindergarten learners organize their thoughts and select words or images that help others understand their message, and they share their ideas in collaborative and creative ways.

Global Competencies in English Language Arts

Critical Thinking

Critical thinking in English language arts involves the intentional process of synthesizing and analyzing ideas using criteria and evidence, making reasoned judgments, and reflecting on the consequences and implications of those judgments.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster critical thinking as a competency, learners

- find and use sources for specific purposes and for different audiences to share knowledge, explore ideas, and deepen thinking
- evaluate sources for validity and reliability, and question assumptions, bias, and stereotyping in their own and others' texts
- connect ideas, patterns, and relationships from multiple texts and sources using criteria and evidence to make decisions for different purposes
- reflect on multiple perspectives, points of view, and interpretations to make sense of and respond to texts in terms of purpose, audience, and context
- ask questions and use a variety of thinking processes (e.g., critical, holistic, imaginative, creative, interpretive, computational) to deepen and extend learning

- analyze, challenge, and make judgments about their own and others' texts and ideas, using observations, experiences, and evidence
- use criteria to make ethical decisions about what and whose stories are told and how they respond to texts
- critically examine the contents of texts, evaluating text origin and methods of expression

Creativity

Creativity in English language arts involves exploring and playing with ideas and concepts to represent thinking, solve problems, explore opportunities, and innovate in unique ways. It is the interaction between intuition and thinking.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster creativity as a competency, learners

- invent, take risks, and reflect on creating possibilities for different purposes, audiences, and contexts
- respond to uncertainty with curiosity and open-mindedness, and ask questions to explore ideas/possibilities and to fill information gaps
- select from and use language and literacy strategies, resources, and sources to explore real-world challenges and to generate ideas to solve problems
- generate and enhance new ideas by interpreting and integrating information from multiple texts and building on the ideas of others
- create and adapt plans to meet needs of specific purposes and different audiences
- test and adapt ideas, plans, and designs to make decisions about texts for clarity and effect, including styles of communication and creative uses of conventions
- reflect on creative processes, iterations, and revisions, and seek and use feedback to refine designs

Citizenship

Citizenship in English language arts involves engaging with others and working toward a more equitable, compassionate, and sustainable world through the development and value of relationships to self, others, and the natural world.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster citizenship as a competency, learners

- develop, understand, and reflect on their own perspectives on complex issues
- recognize discrimination, principles of equity, and human rights in texts and in the world around them

- explore the interconnectedness of self, others, and the natural world through texts
- welcome and discuss diverse viewpoints, experiences, and world views to make sense of issues related to others and the natural world
- reflect on how texts represent and promote beliefs, values, and the ability to empathize with perspectives that are similar to or different from their own
- engage with others in safe, respectful, and inclusive ways, with attention to the complexities of digital citizenship, intellectual property, and fair dealing
- evaluate factors and propose solutions that support advocacy for themselves, others, and the natural world for the betterment of their community
- engage in dialogue to find equitable solutions to social issues that support diversity, inclusivity, and human rights
- investigate complex issues to make informed ethical choices for themselves, others, and the natural world

Connection to Self

Connection to self in English language arts involves awareness of the related nature of emotional, intellectual, physical, social, cultural, and spiritual aspects of living and learning, and the responsibility for personal growth and well-being.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster connection to self as a competency, learners

- recognize personal strengths, gifts, and challenges to develop language and literacies for learning and well-being in all areas of their lives
- explore their own voice and understand factors that shape and transform their identities
- recognize and express their feelings and emotions, and use appropriate language strategies to support self-regulation and well-being
- reflect on their decisions, engagement with texts, and others' feedback to monitor their language and literacy growth over time
- set language and literacy goals to extend learning, broaden experiences, and deepen connections for well-being
- plan for the future and follow their own lines of inquiry to pursue curiosities, passions, and interests
- persevere through challenges to understand and create increasingly complex texts
- adapt and change their language and literacy practices in new and varied contexts and communities
- recognize their agency and embrace their role in making decisions about their language and literacy learning and well-being

Collaboration

Collaboration in English language arts involves learning with and from others and working together with a shared commitment to a common goal.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster collaboration as a competency, learners

- seek to understand diverse perspectives, opinions, and ideas to make sense of and respond to increasingly varied and complex texts
- add to, stretch, and redirect their thinking to deepen and build on others' ideas
- value and put trust in others' contributions when considering alternative viewpoints and contemplating the actions that can be taken
- build relationships by actively listening and asking questions of themselves and others to explore topics and ideas
- work through differences in constructive ways, and compromise, change perspectives, or challenge points of view and opinions
- use criteria for conversations and collaboration to co-construct meaning with others as they investigate issues, moral dilemmas, and possibilities for social justice
- commit to using collaboration norms, strategies, and protocols in communities of practice to work toward a collective purpose or common goal

Communication

Communication in English language arts involves interacting with others and allowing for a message to be received, expressed, and understood in multiple ways and for a variety of purposes.

When the English language arts curriculum is used to foster communication as a competency, learners

- recognize, apply, and adjust rules and conventions in text to express ideas and emotions
- consider audience, purpose, and context when making decisions about using and combining different modes and forms to communicate ideas
- understand how their words and actions shape their identity and affect how they tell their own and others' stories
- use visual, print, and oral signals to enhance understanding when receiving messages in a variety of contexts
- seek to understand others' ideas, purposes, and messages through actively listening and questioning in a variety of contexts
- recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and ideas can have an impact on and influence understanding and how we respond to texts

- use their networks of background knowledge to make sense of texts and deepen their understandings through language and languages
 - make connections to how the English language works, and use language in discerning and purposeful ways to build relationships both in person and in digital contexts
 - recognize the importance and impact of particular ways of thinking, doing, creating, and using language to communicate and strengthen communities

Enduring Understandings

Enduring understandings are the essential big ideas residing at the heart of all disciplines. They are the principles educators interpret and use to guide curriculum planning, and that learners use to deepen understanding, make connections, and transfer their learning across a broad spectrum of language and literacy experiences.

Language and literacies are central to all learning.

Today's learners need a broad communicative repertoire to interact with and navigate multiple forms of text and social contexts.

- Reflection: How do I design learning experiences and assessment practices so that learners have meaningful opportunities to use language and literacies in all facets of learning?

Language and literacies are context-dependent.

Today's learners will understand how to use language and literacies for different contexts such as navigating different purposes, audiences, and cultural contexts.

- Reflection: How do I recognize and help others to recognize that the ways we use language and literacies will change based on context?

Language and literacy learning is complex, continuous, and recursive.

Today's learners will realize that language and literacy learning are dynamic and provide opportunities for learners to return to and reflect on their learning, which expands their experiences, interactions, and relationships.

- Reflection: How do I provide opportunities for learners to broaden, deepen, and transform their language and literacies?

Language and literacies develop differently for each individual.

Today's learners have unique and diverse ways of developing and expanding their language and literacies.

- Reflection: How do I learn about and harness the different ways of learning/knowing language and literacies in my classroom?

Language and literacy learning and use are social.

Today's learners will experience language and literacies through the processes of communication, conversation, and collaboration to make meaning when interacting with text and creators of texts.

- Reflection: How do I support collaboration in my classroom to build language and literacy among learners?

Language and literacy demands are evolving.

Today's learners require the capacity and capability to navigate multiple uses of language, multiliteracies, and multimodal texts (print, digital, physical, aural/oral, gestural, spatial, and visual modes).

- Reflection: How do I select, use, provide access to, and support the creation of multiple forms and modes of texts in my classroom?

Language and literacy experiences inform and influence our developing sense of self.

Today's learners are affected by their language and literacies, and this defines how they construct their personal identity. English language arts is essential for all to live Mino-pimatisiwin \(The Good Life\). The English language arts curriculum acknowledges literacy as a fundamental right and that it is at the heart of the learner's knowing, being, and doing.

- Reflection: How do I learn about the multiple identities of learners in my classroom/school?

Language and literacies are enacted through inextricably connected practices.

Today's learners will use a range of modes to make and communicate their meaning through language and literacy.

- Reflection: How do I support focused and intentional teaching within meaningful language and literacy experiences?

Learning Outcomes

Strand A: Building Literacy

General Learning Outcome: Oral Language Communication

ELA.K.A1 Learners engage in oral language communication as a recursive process of listening, speaking, and interacting to construct meaning, exchange ideas and perspectives, and expand their understanding of themselves, others, and the world.

Listen and Comprehend

ELA.K.A1.1 Listen to information, ideas, and experiences shared by others; show understanding by responding to simple questions, sharing something learned, and asking questions with support.

ELA.K.A1.2 Notice how speakers use communication features (e.g., words, voice, facial expressions, gestures, and actions) to share ideas and messages; with guidance, talk about how these features help listeners understand.

Speak and Interact

ELA.K.A1.3 Use complete sentences, appropriate grammar, and basic vocabulary to share ideas, needs, feelings, and experiences with others.

ELA.K.A1.4 Exchange ideas and experiences in conversations and play-based interactions, staying on topic and taking turns with others.

General Learning Outcome: Language as the Foundation for Reading and Writing

ELA.K.A2 Learners build and apply foundational language knowledge and skills, including letter knowledge, sound awareness, word structures, vocabulary knowledge, and language conventions, to engage as active readers, writers, and communicators.

Phonological Awareness

ELA.K.A2.1 Explore spoken language structures, including phonemes (sounds), rhymes, syllables, and words, by identifying, matching, segmenting, and blending sounds and word parts (e.g., recognize and produce rhymes, clap syllables in words, blend and separate compound words); use these understandings during speaking, shared reading, and early writing experiences.

Alphabetic Knowledge

ELA.K.A2.2 Identify and produce upper-case and lower-case alphabet letters by name and sounds; use letter-sound knowledge to support early reading and emergent writing.

Phonics: Letter-Sound Relationships

ELA.K.A2.3 Recognize that letters and letter combinations represent sounds in spoken words; use this knowledge to read, write, and spell familiar words with support during play and learning experiences.

Spelling Conventions

ELA.K.A2.4 Use letter-sound knowledge and familiar spelling patterns (e.g., beginning and ending sounds, rhyming words, word families such as -at and -an, and familiar words) to support early reading (decoding) and emergent writing (encoding).

Word Structures and Meaning (Morphology)

ELA.K.A2.5 With guidance, notice and discuss how joining words together or adding word endings can create new words and change meaning (e.g., compound words [rain + bow = rainbow, cup + cake = cupcake] and word endings [cat → cats; jump → jumping]) when speaking, listening, early reading, and emergent writing.

Vocabulary Knowledge

ELA.K.A2.6 Recognize and acquire a growing vocabulary through text experiences; apply newly learned words in conversations, play, and emergent writing to communicate ideas.

Language Conventions

ELA.K.A2.7 Recognize that language conventions (e.g., letters, words, repetitive phrases, sentence patterns, grammar, punctuation) help communicate meaning in texts; with support, use emerging knowledge of these conventions when speaking and representing to share ideas.

Strand B: Comprehend and Respond

General Learning Outcome: Navigate Texts

ELA.K.B1 Learners draw on their knowledge, experiences, and awareness of text cues and conventions to establish purpose, anticipate meaning, and prepare for initial engagement with texts.

Activate Prior Knowledge

ELA.K.B1.1 Use prior knowledge and experiences to talk about people, events, objects, and topics related to text experiences; share ideas, questions, and wonderings.

Establish Purpose and Focus

- ELA.K.B1.2 Share a simple reason for engaging with a text (e.g., enjoyment, finding information) with support; ask simple questions about familiar people, experiences, pictures, and texts to focus attention on what they want to learn, notice, enjoy, and/or talk about.

Use Text Cues and Conventions

- ELA.K.B1.3 Notice and use cues in texts (e.g., pictures, repetitive words or phrases, labels, features) with support; tell how they contribute to the understanding of ideas.

General Learning Outcome: Construct Meaning

- ELA.K.B2 Learners actively construct meaning when reading, viewing, and listening to texts by applying a range of comprehension strategies. They make connections, infer meaning, and monitor understanding to build knowledge and deepen understanding across a variety of contexts and text forms.

Predict and Infer

- ELA.K.B2.1 Make simple predictions about what might happen next in a text experience; use prior knowledge and clues in pictures and discussions (before, during, and after reading/viewing/listening) to support understanding.

Make Connections

- ELA.K.B2.2 Make connections between experiences and texts; share ideas, feelings, and experiences related to characters/people, events, and/or topics in a text experience.

Monitor Understanding

- ELA.K.B2.3 Notice when something does not make sense; with support, use clues (e.g., pictures, asking questions) to support understanding.
- ELA.K.B2.4 Use fluency skills (e.g., phrasing and expression) and strategies (e.g., repeated language, attending to pictures) through shared literacy experiences; identify some letters and sounds, recognize familiar words, and notice how punctuation, pauses, and expression help convey meaning.

Summarize Meaning

- ELA.K.B2.5 Share ideas about a text through talk, play, drawing, or other representations to show understanding.

General Learning Outcome: Think Critically about Texts

ELA.K.B3 Learners analyze ideas, information, viewpoints, and perspectives within and across texts to build understanding. Learners use evidence from texts to develop, support, and evaluate interpretations.

Analyze Ideas and Information

ELA.K.B3.1 Identify simple messages and/or big ideas with guidance using words, drawings, play, or other representations.

Critique Purpose, Viewpoint, and Perspective

ELA.K.B3.2 Share ideas about people, events, and topics in a text; with guidance, discuss what the text is about and why it was created.

General Learning Outcome: Consolidate Understanding

ELA.K.B4 Learners reflect on, extend, and integrate new learning to develop deeper understandings. They respond to texts by sharing interpretations, perspectives, and insights that expand, challenge, or refine their thinking.

Reflect on New Learning

ELA.K.B4.1 Share new ideas learned from texts through talk, play, drawing, or other representations.

Response to Text: Self and Others

ELA.K.B4.2 Share thoughts, feelings, enjoyment, and wonder about a text through talk, play, drawing, or other representations; connect ideas in texts to personal experiences.

ELA.K.B4.3 Share responses to texts with others; listen to different ideas, feelings, and wonderings about a text.

Strand C: Compose and Create Texts

General Learning Outcome: Plan and Develop Texts

ELA.K.C1 Learners will generate ideas, conduct research, evaluate sources, and design a plan to compose texts (visual, multimedia, oral, written) for a range of purposes and audiences.

Generate Ideas and Select Topic

ELA.K.C1.1 Share ideas from personal experiences, play, conversations, and text; choose a topic with guidance.

Research Sources

- ELA.K.C1.2 With guidance, explore information from a relevant source (e.g., oral, visual, digital, written) related to a topic; identify ideas connected to the topic.

Analyze Author's Craft

- ELA.K.C1.3 Explore mentor texts with guidance to notice how text features, language, and visuals help communicate ideas; try similar techniques with guidance in one's own writing.

Plan and Develop Ideas

- ELA.K.C1.4 Use simple planning tools (e.g., drawings, play, conversation, shared brainstorming) to explore, share, and record ideas about a topic; with support, organize ideas for creating a text.

Choose Form

- ELA.K.C1.5 With support, develop an awareness of different types of writing (e.g., narrative and informational) and forms; identify, with guidance, a simple form to communicate ideas.
- ELA.K.C1.6 Create texts for a purpose and audience with guidance; use drawings, oral language, play, and emerging writing to communicate ideas; use ideas and information gathered from experiences and learning, including techniques explored in mentor texts; place pictures, symbols, and words in a simple sequence to create a text.
- ELA.K.C1.7 Use drawing, emergent writing, and other composition tools to represent and communicate ideas; form letters, symbols, and words in recognizable ways to create and share clear messages and ideas.

General Learning Outcome: Refine Texts

- ELA.K.C2 Learners apply the key qualities of writing to revise, refine, and enhance texts for different purposes, contexts, and audiences.

Organize Content

- ELA.K.C2.1 With support, retell and review the organization of ideas and information in text creation; make simple changes to help communicate meaning.

Elevate Sentence Fluency

- ELA.K.C2.2 Share ideas from text creation; with support, review sentence construction to express ideas clearly (e.g., capital letter at the beginning and appropriate end punctuation); experiment with simple connecting words (e.g., and) to join ideas.

Enhance Word Choice

- ELA.K.C2.3 Reread and improve word choice with guidance; choose descriptive words to communicate ideas, experiences, and feelings; with support, try different words to strengthen message.

Voice/Style

- ELA.K.C2.4 Demonstrate personal voice in texts, using words and expressive drawings (e.g., facial expressions, colour, or details in pictures) to engage with an audience about a topic.

Revision

- ELA.K.C2.5 Understand that text creators can change their ideas in response to feedback.

General Learning Outcome: Edit and Publish

- ELA.K.C3 Learners proofread, edit, and refine texts by applying editing strategies to improve accuracy and clarity. They publish their work using appropriate tools, modes, and platforms to communicate for different purposes, contexts, and audiences.

Review Mechanics

- ELA.K.C3.1 Use knowledge of letter-sound relationships, environmental print, classroom resources (e.g., word walls), and familiar words to check and improve the spelling of familiar words.
- ELA.K.C3.2 When reviewing texts, edit, with guidance, for the accurate use of capital letters in names, the pronoun I, and the beginning of sentences.
- ELA.K.C3.3 Explore and edit texts, with guidance, for use of punctuation (e.g., periods, question marks, exclamation marks) to help communicate meaning.

Publish Final Text

- ELA.K.C3.4 Create and share a final text, with support, for a specific purpose; with guidance, combine print, drawings, oral language, or other simple modes to communicate ideas and meaning.

Strand D: Share and Reflect

General Learning Outcome: Share Ideas and Communicate Effectively

ELA.K.D1 Learners organize and communicate ideas for others by making intentional choices about content, communication mode, and style for different purposes and contexts.

Express Ideas and Engage Audience

ELA.K.D1.1 Develop an idea/information in a simple sequence with guidance to share with others; add details with guidance to help others understand the message.

ELA.K.D1.2 Explore, with guidance, different ways/modes (e.g., play, drawings, objects, actions, words/stories) to share ideas with others.

ELA.K.D1.3 Explore and use appropriate volume and a clear voice, with guidance, when talking with others to share ideas.

General Learning Outcome: Reflect on Learning and Plan Next Steps

ELA.K.D2 Learners use descriptive feedback and criteria to reflect on their learning, set goals, and monitor progress to inform next steps.

Self-Reflect

ELA.K.D2.1 Listen to feedback from others; reflect on and respond to simple questions about learning (e.g., “What went well?” “What are you learning?”) to support ongoing progress.

Set Goals and Monitor Progress

ELA.K.D2.2 With guidance, choose a next step for learning from a picture chart of criteria; recognize and track own progress, with guidance.

Curriculum Implementation Resources

Curriculum implementation resources will include supplementary documents to support implementation. This section and the support documents will continue to be updated, so you are encouraged to visit the site regularly.
