

1. Use your atlas to complete this chart, making sure to use both the Index and the Table of Contents.
2. Exchange your sheet with another group to help one another complete any sections you may have missed.
3. Add additional interesting information you find, and compare how each of you located the information.

Search Element	Information (one interesting fact you found)	Page Reference
A map showing world population distribution
A chart of population statistics of more-developed and less-developed countries
The exact latitude and longitude of New York
A list of the most densely populated countries of the world
Statistics about the urban population of the world
Statistics about population change in the countries of the world
A map showing the most polluted regions of the world
Statistics about refugees
A map showing all the countries and capitals of Europe
Other?		