ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Manitoba Education and Training acknowledges the individuals involved in the review and selection of learning resources to support provincial curriculum implementation. Appreciation is also extended to school divisions within Manitoba that support teachers' participation in the review. Finally, publishers, producers, and distributors are thanked for their submission of learning resources for consideration.

INTRODUCTION

Reference for Selecting Learning Resources

Human Ecology: Grades 9 to 12: A Reference for Selecting Learning Resources is a reference tool provided by Manitoba Education and Training to help educators select teacher/student learning resources to support the curriculum.

Learning Resources Reviews

Publishers submitted resources for review to the Learning Resources Unit of Instruction, Curriculum and Assessment Branch in response to the Department's request for new learning resources to support provincial curricula. Teachers, nominated by superintendents of school divisions, are selected as teacher-evaluators. Using a collaborative review process, the teacher-evaluators examine the materials according to the resource-selection criteria to make recommendations regarding the suitability of the resources for Manitoba students and teachers.

Resource Selection Criteria

Learning resources are selected based on the basis of their fidelity with the rationale, philosophy, processes, and learning outcomes identified in each curriculum. Four evaluation criteria are used in selecting learning resources:

- Curriculum Fit/Content/Philosophy: the degree to which the content and processes of the resource align with the curriculum, thus providing support for curriculum implementation.
- Instructional Design: the degree to which the resource provides for multiple approaches to learning, has a wide range of use, is current, and reflects current pedagogical theory and practice.
- Social Considerations: the degree to which the resource is free of bias and stereotyping. The resource is examined for Canadian content, the use of culturally diverse examples, and accurate portrayal of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples. Cautionary notes are added to alert teachers to potentially sensitive curriculum-fit issues or potential community concerns related to the resource.
- Technical Design: the degree to which the resource is visually appealing and has a logical and consistent form.

When selecting learning and teaching resources, teachers should consider how the resources meet the learning requirements of students, the perspectives of the student population, and local decisions related to the delivery of potentially sensitive content.

Terms and Definitions

The following terms and definitions are used to describe the learning resources:

- Breadth: identifies learning resources that address a wide range of student learning outcomes for a particular grade.
- Depth: identifies learning resources that provide effective learning experiences in greater detail for a narrower grouping of student learning outcomes.
- Breadth and Depth: identifies comprehensive learning resources that provide both breadth and depth dimensions for an extensive grouping of student learning outcomes.
- Teacher Reference: identifies resources that assist teachers in implementing the curriculum, including background information for teacher use; may identify teaching suggestions and learning activities.
- Teacher Guide: identifies a separate guide for teachers or a teacher edition of a student text.

Subject/Grade

	K	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
Textile Arts and Design										✓	✓	✓	✓

Apparel Design, Textiles and Construction (2018) is a recommended teacher/student resource that aligns with the majority of Grades 9–12 textile arts and design outcomes. Textile Arts and Design teachers will have to access another resource(s) that support the environmental design outcomes (there is a recommended resource annotated in this document that supports environmental design).

There are six units in the areas of apparel and fashion, apparel decisions, colour and design, from fibers to fabrics, sewing techniques, and career preparation. Within each unit there are a number of chapters that each begin with an outline of the learning goals, key terms/vocabulary, and each chapter concludes with multiple self-assessment and real-world applications. This is demonstrated with skill reinforcement and application projects that include graphic organizers, questions for critical thinking, chapter summary, review of facts, apparel applications (real-world activities), and core skills (application activities in reading, writing, technology, and math). Featured sections within each chapter include highlights in history/society, safety features, and STEM connections. The resource is supportive of all learning styles.

A student workbook supports the topics of design, textiles, and construction and has corresponding activities and worksheets. There is a complete online learning suite available with instructor and student resources, PowerPoint presentations, ExamView assessment resources, and more.

Child Care Today: Becoming an Early Childhood Professional

Publisher: Nelson

Subject/Grade	K	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
Applied Family Studies													✓

Child Care Today: Becoming an Early Childhood Professional (2016) is a recommended teacher resource for Grade 12 applied family studies. This comprehensive package of resources provides in-depth theory and practice of caring for children, in preparation for a career in early childhood education.

This American textbook introduces the basics of childcare and its principles, as well as guidance and management techniques. It focuses on the developmental stages of infants to school-age children. Child Care Today provides the essential components necessary to teach applied skills for program basics such as schedules, routines, physical environments, equipment, safety and nutrition. Program planning and activities comprise major sections of this resource. A highlight of Child Care Today is the career connection information embedded into each chapter of the book, which speaks to post-secondary and specialization as well as skill development for employment.

Child Care Today also features online resources on the ConnectED platform to support teachers. Teachers can access the student eBook, digital resources, assessment, and planning tools.

Note: Print student edition and/or online bundles available.

Subject/Grade

	K	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
Family Studies										✓

Contemporary Living (2015) is a recommended teacher (instructor's edition) and student (student edition) resource for Grade 9 family studies as it aligns with most of the outcomes in the curriculum. The textbook is well organized, colourful, and includes graphics to engage students with the content of the book. Each page contains a generous amount of white space, making it less intimidating to the Grade 9 reader.

Each chapter highlights terms to know, objectives and key concepts, and each chapter ends with a summary and a knowledge check. The adolescent development content includes the topics of growth and development, personality, self-concept, and lifestyle choices. The textbook also places emphasis on communication, conflict resolution, and the development of healthy relationships in the lives of adolescents. This textbook introduces the topics of family structures, parenting, family management, and crisis in the family. There is a career focus throughout the textbook with a chapter dedicated to Human Ecology careers and employability skills.

The instructor resource materials include a series of CDs (instructor's resource, ExamView assessment suite, and instructor PowerPoint presentations), as well as an instructor annotated workbook.

Food in Society: An Introduction (2013) is a recommended teacher/student resource for Grades 9 and 10 food and nutrition course in addition to the full-credit food and nutrition portion of the Grades 9 and 10 human ecology courses. This is also a recommended teacher resource for Grades 5–8 food and nutrition.

This is one title in a six part Canadian series and, as a set, is a comprehensive resource. The series contains the titles Food Preparation, Food and Society, and Nutrition and Healthy Eating. Each title has an introduction and extended level textbook. The series is authored/reviewed by teachers in various regions of the country, including Manitoba.

There are two main units that focus on “What Factors Influence How and What We Eat” and “We Depend on One Another For Food.” These areas of study cover content such as what influences our food choices and habits, where does our food come from, our environmental responsibilities, and ensuring food for all.

The teacher resource provides specific differentiated suggestions and multi-level learning to accommodate student needs. It readily combines hands-on experiences in the form of labs that use icons to indicate strategies for foundational or challenging concepts. Suggestions for adapting activities to meet the various intelligences that students bring to the classroom are available within the teacher resource. It contains charts and strategies to support diverse student needs and builds on Howard Gardner’s multiple intelligences and differentiated instructional techniques. It provides suggestions for critical thinking and inquiry/research skills. It contains pdf blackline masters (BLMs) for assignments, as well as BLMs for assessment rubrics for culminating activities.

Interpersonal Relationships (2018) is a recommended Grade 12 family studies teacher/student resource due to the advanced literacy level.

This American textbook is an interactive, comprehensive introduction to relationship skills, including relationships among friends, relationships within family, and relationships in the workplace. Interpersonal Relationships introduces a number of topics including reaching your potential, setting and reaching your life goals, relating to other people, romantic relationships, family relationships, family relationships over time, and fulfilling family, career, and community roles.

Key terms and vocabulary are introduced within each chapter with opportunities for real-world application, discussion, and assessment. The special features of the textbook are the case studies, getting started, and real-life scenarios that apply concepts and skills. Lesson comprehension checks assess student understanding periodically to maximize learning. Each chapter ends with an extensive review and assessment focusing on a chapter summary, vocabulary activities, assessing knowledge, understanding and skills, critical thinking, core skills (research, writing, social studies, etc.), and an application to career readiness. At the end of each of the six units, there is a “connecting with careers focus” that highlights the career pathways to a number of careers within human services, education and training, and management areas of study.

The Interpersonal Relationships Workbook (with perforated pages) provides questions to help students review the material presented for each chapter. A companion website for students/teachers with an online textbook (through a subscription) is available. PowerPoint presentations for instructors by individual licence is also available online.

Parenting: Raising Healthy Children (2014) is a recommended Canadian teacher/student resource for Grades 10 and 11 family studies. The Canadian content is valuable and the family studies teacher can enhance the content in this compact textbook with other resources. This text is authored/reviewed by teachers in various regions of the country, including Manitoba.

This soft-covered textbook provides in-depth content within three units—deciding to become a parent, infant and child growth and development (1–3, 4–6 and 7–12 years), and responsibilities and perspectives of caregivers. The range of topics covered in eight chapters includes preparing for parenthood, pregnancy, birth and prenatal care, child development and the role of the parent/caregiver, social variations, and parenting in a changing society. This resource provides a unique Canadian view of issues related to citizenship and sustainability in Canada and highlights the changing definition of family, with Canadian perspectives.

Each chapter is well structured with a unit overview, a listing of key terms, research/inquiry skills, critical thinking thought boxes, case studies, Canadian supported career connections integrated into each unit of study, active learning, and current trend information.

Clothing and Textiles						✓	✓	✓	✓

The Successful Sewing (2013) write-in textbook (teacher/student) and instructors CD (teacher) are recommended resources for Grades 9–12 textile arts and design, in addition to the textile arts and design portion within the Grades 9–12 human ecology courses. This is also a recommended teacher resource for Grades 5–8 clothing and textiles.

There are multiple references to a technique, construction, or a specific detail on a sewing project that will help the teacher break down the steps for twenty-nine lessons. The instructor CD provides objectives, definitions of words to know, supplies required, and answers to activity questions in addition to print ready lesson plans and answer keys.

Units 1 and 2 help students evaluate their sewing construction knowledge and plan a program of learning. Unit 3 contains lessons that teach construction basics. Units 4 and 5 help students diagnose their learning level and identify a project to promote further learning. Units 6 and 7 provide practice in construction project. Unit 8 provides tools for evaluating student projects, and Unit 9 contains additional enrichment experiences.

Note: This resource supports content related to imperial measurements.

Textile Arts and Design										✓	✓	✓	✓
Clothing and Textiles						✓	✓	✓	✓

The World of Fashion (2014) is a recommended teacher/student resource for Grades 9–12 textile arts and design, in addition to the textile arts and design portion with in the Grades 9–12 human ecology courses. This is the first Canadian textile/clothing resource to provide a unique Canadian view of issues related to fashion that is inclusive of Indigenous/cultural influences and perspectives. This is also a recommended teacher resource for Grades 5–8 clothing and textiles.

Each chapter within the textbook provides learning goals, essential review questions, definitions, and featured articles, to develop research and inquiry skills. Throughout this textbook there is colour-coded content to support the following themes: made-in-Canada, a passion for fashion, financial literacy, the environment and sustainability, global connections, and critical thinking.

The World of Fashion is an in-depth resource covering a range of topics including clothing needs and how it affects choices, media options, history and design, as well as tools/techniques. In addition, current clothing construction, fashion trends/movement, and sustainability, including the impact of the industry on the environment. This textbook is well organized, colourful, and includes graphics and side definitions to engage students with the content of the book.

The teacher resource pack is a coil-bound book with a DVD that provides real-world examples, hands-on activities, and opportunities for class, small-group, and independent study. In addition, this resource provides teaching strategies and experimental learning approaches to accommodate diversity in the classroom. These resources are available to assist with lesson planning, unit tests, answer keys and contain activity project and assessment blackline masters that are both reproducible and modifiable.
